Southwestern University
1971

A juncture in time, a quiet space in a student's mental turmoil, the peace of the end of one thing, the beginning of another:
we came to learn, to grow, to be — that is what this work is meant to show. Few words are needed, for each one's interpretation will be unique.
It is said that rationality comes as an elaboration of feeling — a feeling perhaps you will find here, a spark of memory lit in a picture of time past.
Search for that spark within these pages and find your own year at Southwestern University.

The album is dedicated to the student, to the teacher — their continual striving to learn, their hopes for a changing world.

pay no heed
to escaping sandtime.
time moves

falling in upon itself
from where i am in the moving with the sand
falling in upon myself and me
walking with my thought of no escape from time
none.

the road goes on
winding down time
i follow
away from old experience
to never again to be time
such is living

and leaving one place
going to another
so we must all move
like the sandtime

PHOTO ALBUM:

Photo of myself at five years, with dog

From the darkness behind a thought is moving its glow in the shape of a knife.
It is etching in the dark of the page;
I see myself in black and white.
Focusing is vain;
the space between our eyes is small.
I look again; my senses crawl toward that gray sky carved from the photogenic past.
I do recall
the smell of black and white in these wild floral days.
I was full of the juice my fingers were petals to,
my sweat the sea
which nourished these swaying stems
and my blood flowed triumphant toward the end of every day.

But this photograph is faded and I am faded.
Our musty smells now dub decay.

Shall I compare me to this summer day?
The dog against whom
I counted time
has merged his fur
into the stems of blended gray;
my color will not keep.
The black and white is etched away;
the knife is moving toward my age and I am powerless to turn the page.

— Bigley

As another year at the "Patch" drew to a close, the staff of the Sou'wester twisted, turned, pushed, bribed and coaxed this yearbook into shape, learning all the while that collegiate journalism is indeed a thankless task. Problems take on gigantic proportions as deadlines approach. If you like the book — wonderful. If you don't, perhaps there's at least one part you can groove on. But either way, you have to admit that we cared enough to keep trying.

And because they cared to try (thus making this book a joint student effort instead of a one man job), special thanks must go to a very loyal staff: to Gayle Galloway and Roger Darrow, who suffered "editor's nerves" pulling their sections together; to Don Guerrant, who stuck with us to the bitter end to come up with the indispensable photographs; to Zakaria Ali, who donated his time and all that talent to add so much to the faculty section; and to our guiding spirit, advisor Mary Callaway.
